Medical College Admission Test

Sir,

To save the students as well as the guardians from the stress and extra expenditure, there must be uniform rules and regulations for admission test in all the Medical Colleges of the country. Every year it is observed, the system of admission test is changed. Last year, for example, computer machine was used with the hope of achieving better and more accurate results in the admission Test. But to our utter regret this novel method too failed to serve the purpose. This is really unfortunate. This has almost doomed the hopes and aspirations of many of the talented students.

District quota is an important point of consideration while the computer totally ignored it. To do justice to the candidates and to get rid of unnecessary botherations in the admission test, the following suggestion may kindly be taken into consideration:-

1. Candidates seeking admissions to medical colleges may be selected in order of their merit according to their results in the SSC and HSC Examinations. For this the requisite lowest combined total marks of SSC and HSC may be declared in the dailies. The waiting list of the candidates may also be prepared accordingly.

2. We believe that a centrally conducted uniform system of admission test in all universities of the country may do justice to the candidates.
