According to a survey a large number of children between the age of 10 and 12 years are engaged in the different small jobs instead of going to schools to earn their livelihood.

The children are compelled to take up odd jobs like cattle grazing, rickshaw pulling and hotel boys at a poor wage.

Most of the marginal or landless farmers in the district have four or more children and are facing financial crisis. As a result, they cannot afford to educational expenses of their children. Finding no other alternative, they encourage their children to take up any job.

During the harvesting season a large number of labourers along with their kids go to distant places in search of work. As a result, the primary schools in remote areas of the district have been facing acute shortage of students.
