DU boy faces punishment for improper act

A Dhaka University boy will have to face disciplinary actions if found guilty of kissing a girl, reports UNB.

According to proctorial laws of the university, kissing is a violation of the rules and maximum punishment is expulsion for such offences.

Witnesses said Apurba Sikder, a first-year student of Sanskrit and Palee, allegedly kissed a girl student about 10 a.m. while she was coming out of classroom at the Arts Building.

As Pallabi Karmakar, a first-year student of Bengali, screamed, her classmates chased Apurba who tried to take shelter at the Teachers Lounge.
