Teacher hacked to death, wife raped in Khulna

KHULNA, Oct 8:—A school teacher was hacked to death and his wife raped and severely injured in a ghastly act of crime at horticulture colony near Daulatpur Krishi College early today (Thursday), reports APB.

The dead was identified as Sagar Kumar Biswas, 32, son of Satyapada Biswas of Taritghori village in Shalikha thana of Magura district.

Police sources said a group of felons forced their way into the flat where the young couple lived at dead of night and set upon the teacher and his wife Bina Rani, 25. They knifed the man repeatedly until he fell unconscious.

The miscreants then raped his wife and stabbed her before leaving the place.

Sagar Kumar succumbed to his injuries at Khulna Medical College Hospital at about 3 a.m. while his wife was undergoing treatment at the hospital.

Sagar Kumar was an Assistant Teacher of Government KK Primary School at Bagerhat and his wife Bina Rani, an employee of the Horticulture Department.

Police suspected that the victim's refusal to pay toll might have led to the gruesome killing.

A case was lodged with Daulatpur Police in this connection.

Three more people were killed by miscreants in the city in the last four days.
