2 girl students roughed up at Shamsunnahar Hall

Two girl students were roughed up and about 500 pamphlets on a political party were burnt by angry residents of Shamsunnahar Hall of Dhaka University Friday night, reports UNB.

Witnesses said the two students, identified as activists of Jamaat-e-Islami backed Islami Chhatri Sangstha, were caught by members of other student organisations when they were trying to distribute the pamphlets among the residential students.

The angry students also recovered party magazines and some books written by Maulana Moududi and Jamaat-chief Prof Golam Azam from a room of the hall.

"Those books and magazines distorted our national history and criticised the 'Aparajeo Bangla' of the university", alleged one of the protesters who burned the books.
