DU officially reopens today

Staff Correspondent

The Country's highest seat of learning—the Dhaka University reopens officially today (Thursday) after 32 days of closure.

The residential halls reopened on Wednesday by a decision of the University Syndicate. Students started returning to the halls on the day.

The university teachers and students, however, resumed the classes on Sunday defying the Government closure order. The Government suddenly shut down the university asking the students to vacate the halls by promulgating the Education Institutions (Law and Order) Ordinance on October 13 in the wake of reinvigorated anti-Government mass movement.

Prof. Mohammed Moniruzzaman Mia, Vice Chancellor of Dhaka University in a statement on Wednesday appealed to the students and all concerned to maintain peace and harmony on the campus.
