

EWU holds seminar on economic uplift

East West University, a leading private university of the country, recently arranged a seminar on 'sustainable economic development' on its campus in Mohakhali. The Business Club of the university, which is basically run by the students of its business school, organized the seminar. Dr. Amin Uddin Sarker, Professor of Georgia State University, USA presented the keynote paper at the seminar titling 'Policy for Sustainable Economic Development — With Special Reference to Bangladesh.' Apart from a large number of students, the seminar was also attended by its Vice Chancellor M Monwarul Islam and some faculty members. The seminar was marked by an interactive session where students asked different questions regarding the economic development of Bangladesh.

In future, the Business Club will arrange similar seminars on current economic issues. It is to be noted that on May 18, the club, in association with the university's Career Counseling Center, organized a job fair at the LGED auditorium in Dhaka.
