DUCSU convention tomorrow

Staff Correspondent

Dhaka University Central Students Union (DUCSU) sponsored convention tomorrow (Monday) is likely to adopt programmes to beef up anti-government movement. But the DUCSU, dominated by pro-BNP students wing, may not be successful in bringing the students union office-bearers of those institutions controlled by pro-Awami League students wing. Till Saturday noon the DUCSU leaders failed to contact the leaders of pro-Awami League Students' League.

The DUCSU the future course of anti-government movement. According to DUCSU sources the nine-party students combine, backed by five party alliance, may finally cooperate with the DUCSU leaders. But in all probability the convention will not be a unified students convention under the sponsorship of DUCSU again surfacing the disunity in the opposition camp. The students convention is organised to unify the students first.

and then to bring the mainstream opposition to a common platform to unseat the present government forcing a free and fair elections under a neutral government.

According to a source close to DUCSU the students wing of Awami League may announce the identical programme even if they stay away from the convention. The DUCSU leaders were meeting the leaders of different political parties and professional organisations to bring them to the convention. It could not be ascertained the news of the political leaders so far agreed to attend the convention.
