Students to help govt in politics of uplift: Khaleda

Prime Minister Begum Khaleda Zia on Wednesday expressed her firm belief that the student community, the driving force of the society, would always help further the present democratic government, its politics of peace, progress and development, reports BSS.

She said, "we believe that our students will strengthen and continue to play their traditional role for the betterment of the teeming millions in the new democratic atmosphere".

The Prime Minister was addressing the 13th founding anniversary of Jatiyatabadi Chhatra Dal at Engineers Institute premises in Dhaka.

Begum Zia gave a call to the JCD members to identify the elements who wanted to disrupt the present process of development through terrorism and help the administration punish those elements.

She said JCD members had to build up a strong resistance unitedly with the common people against the enemies of the democracy who were trying to raise their heads.

The Prime Minister called upon the JCD leaders and workers to work ceaselessly for the complete flourishing of the concept of nationalism in every sector of national life.

"You have to work for completing the unfinished tasks of Shaheed President Ziaur Rahman who had founded the JCD with a dream of grooming up strong, bold and patriotic leaderships for the country through this organisation."
