JN College teachers' protest

All the teachers of the Department of Political Science of Jagannath College on Thursday decided not to take classes from Friday in protest against "assault on teachers including three-lady teachers" by a group of unruly students according to college sources, reports ESS.

The incident took place when a group of unruly students broke open the door of seminar room and snatched away ballot papers and other documents at the last stage of counting of the departmental students union poll results, held earlier of the day. The group had taken away almost all ballot boxes and relevant papers during the last stage of counting, the sources said.
