Begum Rokeya University, Rangpur has launched the e-tendering process to ensure complete transparency in all sorts of the procurement and purchases of the university. Vice-chancellor of the university Professor Nazmul Ahsan Kalimullah formally launched the process in a simple ceremony held at his office last night,' said a press release on Friday.

On the occasion, the VC also approved a proposal to officially go to the e-tendering process for purchasing computers and accessories for different departments and offices of the institution from the varsity's e-GP website.

'The university started processing of the e-tendering system since April 19 last to replace the traditional method of procurement to bring transparency in all types of procurement and purchases of the university,' the release added.
