Students of Sheikh Hasina Hall of Islamic University in Kushtia went on demonstration on Monday night demanding removal of the hall provost Selina Nasrin.

Nearly a hundred students of the hall gathered at the main entrance to the hall at about 11:30pm and shouted slogans demanding removal of the provost. The agitation continued until the university authorities assured them of responding to their demand.

Students complained that provost Selina Nasrin used to misbehave with the students when they appear her with any problem.

Selina reportedly threatened the students with cancellation of their seats and sending them to the clumsy dormitory room, generally termed as Gana Room.

Students also complained that she even refused to help any ailing student at night.

On information, IU student adviser and proctor Paresh Chandra Barman went to the spot and tried to bring the situation under control.

Later, vice-chancellor M Harun-Ur-Rashid Askari and treasurer M Selim Toha went to the hall; convinced the students to give up their agitation and assured them of looking into their problems.

Denying the allegations, provost Selina Nasrin said the students started the agitation after being pampered by a vested quarter.
