POLICE detained a school-teacher on charge of sexually harassing his female student in Narayanganj on Saturday.

Ibrahim Khalil, 50, assistant teacher of Tajek Prodhan High School, allegedly sexually harassed the Class IX student in a classroom when most of the students were absent because of rain on Saturday noon, police said.

The teacher was detained after the girl lodged a case against him on charge of sexual harassment, said Narayanganj sadar police officer-in-charge Abdul Malek.

The school's head teacher, Robin Ahmed, said the presence of students was low on the day due to rain in cyclone Roanu.

'Around noon, I came out of the office hearing hue and cry.'

'I found the students were beating assistant teacher Ibrahim... later I came to know that he hugged the female student in an isolated classroom', Robin said.

The students came up hearing the victim's scream, he said. Locals also joined the students in beating up the teacher after the news spread, he said.

Elders in the locality of Cognagar rescued the teacher and handed him over to the police.
