board chairman.

An education board chairman said that mark sheets for students who passed SSC exam this year would be posted on websites by the next week.

The board chairman said that mark sheets of all SSC, HSC and equivalent examinees would also be available on the website.

According to this year's SSC results, 14.53 lakh students passed the SSC and equivalent exams. About 12.19 lakhs students are taking HSC and equivalent examinations.

The implementation of the decision would allow the SSC and HSC examinees to know their subject-wise marks after a gap of 15 years.

The government introduced letter grading system for SSC and HSC examinees in 2001 and 2003 respectively. The education boards now provides grade sheet which does not contain subject-wise marks.

Boards came up with the decision as the High Court in 2015 asked them to provide the students with marks sheets on demand, said board officials.

The High Court on April 21, 2015, asked the Dhaka Education Board to develop a system for providing scripts and mark sheets to HSC and SSC examinees on demand.

Providing students with no script and mark sheet is a violation of the fundamental right, said the court verdict in a writ petition filed by an examinee in 2010.

In November 2015, the Appellate Division upheld the High Court verdict, said a board chairman.

Inter-education board coordination subcommittee had forwarded a proposal to education ministry for issuing mark sheet for SSC and HSC students on April 28 and the ministry gave its nod, the board officials said.

In the grading system, students are provided with grade sheets in which students come to know their grade points and cumulative grade point average - 'A+' for 80-100 marks, 'A' for 70-79 marks, 'A-' for 60-69 marks, 'B' for 50-59 marks, 'C' for 40-49 marks, 'D' for 33-40 marks and 'F' for 0-32 marks.

Division system was in place before 2001. A student scoring 600-1000 marks was placed in the first division, 450 meant second division and 330 marks third division; 750 was considered star marks. Letter marks for each subject was 80. Students came to know score in individual subjects in their marks sheets.

In the system all students used to get marks sheet.
