The undergraduate admission test of Rajshahi University of Engineering and Technology for the academic session 2019-20 will be held on Thursday.

A total of 9,060 students applied to appear in the test while 14 departments of the university could accommodate only 1235 candidates, said the university's vice-chancellor Rafiqul Islam Sheikh at a press conference on Tuesday.

A total of 8,280 students under 'KA' group and 780 students under 'Kha' group will take part in the test starting at 9:00am on Thursday.

Steps were taken to ensure successful holding of the test, the vice-chancellor said. He also instructed all candidates to bring the original copies of their higher secondary registration card besides their admit cards for the test.

The university also imposed a ban on processions, or other political activities and megaphones on the campus during the test, he added.

The test's result will be published on November 4.

The university's acting registrar Selim Hossain, students' welfare director Rabiul Awal, deputy directors Mamunur Rashid and Abu Sayeed were also present.
