The Aviation and Aerospace University, Bangladesh held its 19th syndicate meeting at the conference room on its Dhaka campus on Monday.

Vice-chancellor of the university Air-Vice-Marshal M Mustafizur Rahman presided over the conference, said a press release.

The VC remarked that in the present era of globalisation, characterised by rapid technological advancement and the advent of the Fourth Industrial Revolution, specialised higher education institutions such as the Aviation and Aerospace University were of critical importance for the country's economic development and capacity building.

Bangladesh's strategic geographical location, the expansion of its civil aviation sector, its defence capabilities and the emerging commercial prospects in space research collectively position AAUB as a vital strategic pillar for advancing the nation's air connectivity, aviation industry and space technology, he said.

He emphasised that the shared objective was to establish the university as a centre of excellence in aviation and aerospace through integrated planning, sustainable and quality education, timely research initiatives and sound governance.

He added that a strong and positive learning environment could only be achieved through unity.

In light of the current geopolitical context, the VC urged all concerned to work collaboratively in alignment with national interests, expressing confidence that these challenges could be overcome through coordinated effort and shared commitment.

Members of Armed Forces Division, Ministry of Education, Ministry of Law, Justice and Parliamentary Affairs, Bangladesh Air Force, University of Dhaka, Bangladesh University of Engineering and Technology, Bangladesh Biman and Civil Aviation Authority of Bangladesh participated in the meeting, along with other members of AAUB.
