Gazipur Agricultural University concluded its five-day training on Bangladesh e-government procurement system, tax and VAT deduction at the seminar hall of GAU's Institutional Quality Assurance Cell on Monday.

The Institutional Quality Assurance Cell of the university organised the training aimed at strengthening transparent, efficient and technology-driven administrative practices, said a press release.

Thirty-two officers representing various departments and offices of the university participated in the seminar.

GAU vice-chancellor Professor GKM Mustafizur Rahman attended as chief guest while ro-VC Professor M Moynul Haque and treasurer Professor Md Safiul Islam Afrad were present as special guests on the opening and closing sessions of the seminar.

The programme was chaired by IQAC director Professor Nasrin Akter Ivy and moderated by director of Student Welfare and additional director of IQAC Professor Mohammad Sharif Raihan.

The training featured hands-on sessions on public procurement management, financial compliance and digital administrative practices.

Resource persons included senior procurement specialist Md Abdul Aziz and senior financial management specialist, HEAT project, UGC Md Monsuruzzaman Khan.

Participants received practical training on major amendments to the public procurement rules, open tendering, direct procurement methods, request for quotation, e-GP operations, registration procedures, annual procurement plan preparation and tender evaluation.

Sessions on tax and VAT deduction procedures, financial accountability and compliance management were also conducted.

Interactive question-and-answer sessions, evaluation tests and distribution of public procurement law and regulation books added depth to the programme.

Certificates were awarded to participants at the closing ceremony.

Speaking at the event, Professor GKM Mustafizur Rahman stressed the importance of building skilled, technology-oriented human resources to ensure transparency, accountability and efficiency in university administration.

He said that such training initiatives would play a vital role in strengthening professional capacity and institutional good governance.
