28,000 appear at CU admission tests

Chittagong Office

CHITTAGONG, July 3:— More than 28,000 students appeared in admission tests in three different faculties and one institution for honours first year in Chittagong University.

Out of these total admission seekers, only 2,300 students will be admitted into the university for honours first year. That means eight to ten admission seekers have now been vying to get admitted into each of the seat in different subjects (departments) of the university.

The admission tests of the students which passed off peacefully began from June 14 and were completed on Thursday (July 2). Three unscrupulous persons who sat for admission tests in proxy for others were caught red handed by the invigilators and handed over to the police.

Meanwhile, the Chittagong University authority cancelled the rainy season vacation so that the students can make up the loss in their academic life due to recent student unrest on the campus.
