Futile police raid on 2 DU halls

Police raided two residential halls of Dhaka University early Saturday but failed to arrest anyone as "terrorists" staged new-style escape, reports UNB.

A huge contingent of police cordoned off and entered Salimullah Hall at about 6 am in a hunt for terrorists and arms in the wake of unabated violence on the campus.

Sensing the police presence a number of troublemakers mingled with general student activists came out of the hall in an impromptu procession.

Residents said most of the processionists carried arms, leaving none for police who later searched some rooms and returned empty-handed.

Simultaneously police also

Police left the halls after hour-long abortive raids and those wanted by them reportedly staged comeback into their respective shelters shortly afterwards.
