Trouble mongers still moving in some DU halls

Dhaka University authorities' instruction for Provosts and House Tutors to check all rooms of dormitories regularly to maintain peace is yet to take effect, campus sources said, reports UNB.

However, peace on the tense campus lingered for the 8th day Saturday as most terrorists left some halls after a disaster on pro-government Jatiyatabadi Chhatra Dal.

No gunshot was heard in the hotbed of trouble since 7 am on September 4 till filing of this report Saturday evening.

But trouble mongers are still reportedly moving freely in Zahurul Huq, Salimullah and Jagannath halls despite an u timatum issued by the authorities.

A number of "terrorists" were seen guarding these hall gates day and night.

Main gates of these halls remain closed after 10 pm, and armed elements, instead of hall authorities, check general students, according to sources.
