SUB observes Teachers' Day

State University of Bangladesh (SUB) held a seminar on World Teachers' Day recently at the seminar room of the university. The theme of this year's WTD was "Teachers Create Dialogue Every Day". The United Nations' Education, Scientific and Cultural Organization—UNESCO, observe the day since 1994. This year the day has been observed in one hundred and fifteen countries including Bangladesh, says a Press release.

The SUB seminar was presided over by its Vice Chancellor designate Professor Mahmudul Amin, a renowned zoologist who is presently the President of Zoological Society of Bangladesh and a fellow of Bangladesh Academy of Sciences. Shamsuddin Ahmed Chief of Development, Planning and Public Affairs of SUB moderated the seminar.

Professor Mahmudul Amin in his speech highlighted the role of teachers in building the future of mankind. He said that it is through everyday dialogues that teachers create with their students that create the foundation of civilization. He quoted Ralph Waldo Emerson while emphasizing the role of teachers by saying, "What is done in the classrooms today will decide civilization's future tomorrow."

Professor Zakir Hossain, Chairman of MBA Programme at IBA of Dhaka University and Advisor of the Business School of SUB, and Doctor Mahbubur Rahman, Vice President and chief executive of the university also spoke on the occasion.
