The Prime Minister said two projects were currently being implemented for the overall development of libraries—one is the book development programme and the other is Taka six crore programme for assisting the private libraries at district and thana levels.

Efforts are on to develop and expand the activities of the National Book Centre and the government-run libraries at the district level, she added.

Begum Zia said her government wanted to break stagnancy in the library activities and the libraries were to play its due role in the country's development efforts.

The Prime Minister said the government was trying to resolve the problems of the libraries and the librarians.

The formulation of a national library and information policy is under consideration while the short-term and long-term plans are being taken to develop the country's libraries, Begum Zia said.

She also said the government was contemplating the formation of a library commission and added the Ministry of Education had taken steps to promote the librarians and ensure other facilities.

The Prime Minister lauded the role of the Library Association of Bangladesh in the promotion of libraries in the country and assured all necessary help from the government in this regard.

The progress of the nation is related with the libraries, Begum Zia noted adding the spread of education was not possible without the libraries.

She said the National Science Library, which was later unified with another organisation, would be re-established with its own status.

The Prime Minister urged the librarians to come forward in materialising the dreams of the 21st century—that is the establishment of a happy and prosperous Bangladesh.
