

43,860 students sit for first year Fazil (Hons) exams tomorrow

The first year Fazil (Hons) examination under the Islamic University will begin in the country tomorrow (Thursday), reports BSS.

Besides, the Fazil (Hons) special examination of 300 marks will begin on July 10.

A total of 43,860 students of 1,300 madrasahs are expected to sit for the examination, said the controller of the examination of the university.

Of them, 20,495 students are regular candidates while the rest 23,365 are Fazil special examination candidates.

According to the controller, the Fazil (Hons) regular examination would be held on July 3, 8, 13 and 17, and the Fazil special examination on July 10, 15 and 20.

The university authorities have formed 12 invigilator teams for six departments to check in any unfair means during the examination.
