Terrorism free campus to get more aid: PM

Prime Minister Begum Khaleda Zia Sunday night said that educational institutions offering education properly and maintaining congenial academic atmospheres would get increased attention and assistance from the government, reports BSS.

The Prime Minister said this when leaders of Engineering University Central Students Union (EUCSU) and eight residential hall unions met her at Sugandha office.

for uprooting terrorism from the educational institutes to ensure peaceful academic atmosphere. She said as the poor people of the country have been paying for higher education of our children, acts of violence have to be contained in the national interest.

She further said education can get a good foundation only in a democratic atmosphere. During the meeting, EUCSU leaders apprised the Prime Minister of their various problems. They informed her that the academic atmosphere of the BUET was congenial. Vice Chancellor Prof M Shahjahan and Prof Ainnun Nishat who were present during the meeting in their turns said, "We are eagerly waiting to welcome you at the convocation ceremony on May 8."

BUCSU VP Neamul Huda Khan Touhid and EUCSU General Secretary Salauddin Ahmed also spoke.
