

PM urges to quality edu

UNB, Dhaka

Prime Minister Khaleda Zia yesterday hoped that teachers will perform their duties sincerely to bring all school-age children to classes and impart quality education.

She assured that textbooks in four colours would be reached to students soon after results of annual examinations.

"Education is one of the tools to develop human resources. Every year the government is raising allocation on priority basis for primary education," the prime minister told the concluding ceremony of the National Primary Education Week at Osmani Memorial Hall.

Khaleda made a clarion call to all to keep education above party and politics. Education for all should be taken as a social move-

She said about Tk 663 crore would be provided from domestic resources annually for stipend to students. Each student of primary schools is getting Tk 100 per month and Tk 125 is given to a family which has more than one child in school.

Later, the prime minister distributed cheques, medals, crest and certificates to primary students for their best performance in various competitions in 2002 and outstanding results in primary stipend examination 2001. The best primary school, two best male and female teachers and best school managing committee were also awarded.
