Education for all a must, says Raushan

First Lady Begum Raushan Ershad said in Dhaka on Monday that national development was largely dependent on the spread of education, reports BSS.

She said education was the backbone of a nation and added that the nation would make real progress only when the entire population became educated. Efforts should be undertaken to arouse interest in education and make it available to all, she emphasised.

Begum Raushan Ershad was addressing a big students gathering at Jagannath University College premises.

The first lady said that proper atmosphere in the institutions must be ensured for imparting education. She reminded the teachers and students of their responsibilities and added without their collective efforts there could not be any proper education. The standard of education must be upheld at any cost to produce worthy citizens to shoulder national responsibilities, she added.
