A stylized, high-contrast black and white illustration. At the top, an open book is shown, its pages filled with horizontal lines representing text. From the center of the book, a thin, wavy stem grows downwards. Along this stem, several leaves are attached, each with a distinct vein pattern. The stem continues to wavy down towards the bottom of the frame, where it appears to be surrounded by a few more leaves scattered on the ground. The entire composition is set against a solid black background, creating a stark, graphic effect.
