Two DU students detained over sexual harassment

DU Correspondent

POLICE on Sunday afternoon detained two Dhaka University students over a complaint filed over sexually harassing a female student.

The detainees were identified as Ashfaq Al Noor, a master's student and Asad Shah, a fourth year student of history department of the university.

DU acting proctor M Amzad Ali said a female student of history department submitted a written allegation to university authority in the morning accusing the duo for sexually harassing her.

According to the complaint, the duo sent her inappropriate message and later called her up, and abused her with vulgar words. The proctor also said Shahbagh police tracked their mobile phones, and detained them in the afternoon, adding that university authority would also take necessary academic steps against the culprits.
