

President for including topic of adulteration in school textbooks

President Professor Dr Iajuddin Ahmed on Wednesday stressed the need for including 'adulteration' as a topic in school curricula as an initiative to build up a social movement against the vice, reports UNB.

"We'll have to wage a social movement against adulteration to protect the public health," he said when a delegation of Bangladesh Consumer Rights Society met him at Bangabhaban.

The President also called upon the conscious section of the society, including teachers and religious representatives, to come forward for creating mass awareness against the growing malpractice of adulteration.

The delegation, led by patron of the society Justice M Habibur Rahman Khan, appraised the President about their activities.

They said the Society would supply and sell pure products and raw materials at fair prices in open markets at different places of the country, including Dhaka, before holy Ramzan.

The leaders said they were carrying out their campaign to create mass awareness and build up a social movement against adulteration.

They said the Society would hold a grand rally against adulteration soon.

They also presented the President CDs and cassettes of anti-adulteration music.

The President assured them of all-out cooperation in carrying out their anti-adulteration programmes.

Bidyut Chowdhury, M Shahidul Islam Hawlader, M Samsul Haq, Mumin Miah, Sheikh Ali Akkas, Muhabur Alam Sheikh Russell, Mehedi Hasan Mintu, M Sumon Khalashi, Kazi Nuruzzaman Milon and Rezaul Karim were among the delegation members.

Military Secretary to the President Major General M Aminul Karim and Secretary to the President's office M Sirajul Islam were present.
