6,000 primary teachers' posts to be filled up

The Government has withdrawn restrictions imposed earlier on appointment of primary school teachers in vacant posts, an Education Ministry Press release said on Tuesday, reports ESS.

The restrictions have been withdrawn as the Government attached top priority to the primary education, the Press release said.

With the withdrawal of restrictions, nearly 6,000 vacant posts of primary school teachers in the country will be filled up and in the future the vacant posts could be filled up in accordance with the appointment procedures formulated by the Education Ministry, the Press release added.
