A seminar library and two laboratories have been set up in the faculty of pharmacy of Dhaka University with the aim of modernising education and research.

Dhaka University vice-chancellor Professor ABM Obaidul Islam inaugurated the seminar library and labs as chief guest at a function at the Pharmacy Lecture Theatre on Thursday, said a press release.

The Professor Emeritus Abdul Jabbar Memorial Seminar Library, Professor Md Habibur Rahman Nano Technology Lab and Cell Culture Research Lab have been set up in collaboration with Radiant Pharmaceuticals Limited.

Presided over by dean of the faculty of pharmacy Professor Md Selim Reza, pro-VC, academic, Professor Abdus Salam and chairman of Radiant Pharmaceuticals Limited Md Naser Shahriar Zahidi were present as special guest and pharmacy department chairperson Professor Zakir Ahmed Chowdhury and Bangladesh Pharmacy Council secretary Muhammad Mahbubul Haque spoke as guests of honour at the programme.

Professor Md Abdur Rashid, department of pharmaceutical chemistry, presented the keynote address at the programme, which was moderated by Professor Md Aslam Hossain.

Professor Obaidul Islam emphasised on strengthening industry-academia relations to bring the benefits of research to the common people.

He said that everyone should work together to elevate the position of Dhaka University to a respectable level in the international rankings.

'The curriculum should be updated according to the needs of the industry. Practical knowledge should be acquired along with textbook knowledge, he noted, expressing hope that the students of the faculty would benefit from the library, cell culture and nanotechnology labs.
