Gazipur Agricultural University inaugurated a three-day training programme titled Capacity Building of Faculty Member of Agriculture, GAU at the university on Monday.

The programme was organised with the slogan 'building stronger faculty, advancing agricultural education' under the Higher Education Acceleration and Transformation Project, said a press release.

The initiative aims to enhance the quality of agricultural education, align academic programme with international standards and strengthen institutional preparedness for accreditation of the bachelor of science in agriculture programme.

The programme was inaugurated by GAU vice-chancellor Professor GKM Mustafizur Rahman at the university's Old Auditorium.

Chaired by Professor Md Abdul Baset Mia, sub-project manager, associate sub-project manager Professor Md Ruhul Amin delivered the welcome address at the inaugural session.

Professor Mustafizur Rahman underscored the growing importance of accreditation as a benchmark of academic excellence in higher education.

He also highlighted the increasing role of technology and innovation in modern agriculture, noting that the training programme represented a significant step toward aligning agricultural education with global standards.

The technical sessions featured experts from academia and industry.

Brigadier General Tamjidul Haque Chowdhury, managing director of Cloud

Connect AI, spoke on the application of artificial intelligence in transforming agriculture.

Former GAU professor MA Karim and former director general of BARI Md Shahidul Islam discussed international research collaboration and global academic networks.

Former BAU Professor Md Jahir Uddin conducted a session on effective classroom management for improved learning outcomes.

Ninety-two faculty members, ranging from lecturers to professors from the faculty of agriculture, are participating in the training.
